

FARM STATS

Location : Vallonia, IN

Owner: Vernon Stuckwish

Founded: 1959

Crops:

Tomatoes - Romas, yellow slicers, and red slicers.

MEET THE GROWERS

Stuckwish Family Farms

Stuckwish Family Farms is a fourth-generation owned farm currently operated by Vernon Stuckwish. The farm has been in the same location in Jackson County, IN since 1959. Over the years Stuckwish Farms has expanded in order to grow a wider variety of vegetables and we are now proud to grow watermelons, cantaloupe, tomatoes, peppers, sweet corn, pumpkins, winter squash, and gourds during our harvest season. Stuckwish Farm grows thousands of Romas, yellow slicers, and red slicers. Big, beautifully colored, and always grown to perfection, these tomatoes will be ripe and ready for all your needs.

Stuckwish Farms is proud to be active within a community of wholesale growers. Vernon Stuckwish is a member of both the Indiana Vegetable Growers Association and the Georgia Fruit and Vegetable Growers Association.

"We are committed to bringing you and your customers the safest produce possible. For the last five years, our farm has voluntarily participated in food safety programs and we have proudly earned the USDA GAP and GMP food safety certifications."

