High Acres Farms

On the rolling hillsides of Hartford, Michigan, the Meacham family manages High Acres Farms. Established in 1942 by their grandfather Glenn, today High Acres is managed by Glenn's son Doug along with three grandsons, Trever, Jason and Ryan. Together this farm family painstakingly cares for hundreds of acres of fruit trees and vegetable crops including their most recently added, and highly popular "Spencer Brand" sweet grape tomatoes. Nominated Michigan Farm Family of the year in 2007, the Meacham family has been recognized for their commitment to good agricultural Practices, stewardship of the land and active community involvement. High Acres Farm is proud to present you with the highest standard of quality and flavor in all of their product offerings. Near the shore of Lake Michigan, Meachum Family Farms meanders along the bank of the Paw Paw River in Southwest Michigan. This highly productive and unique agricultural area has long been recognized and referred to as "The Michigan Fruit Belt". The close proximity to the shore of Lake Michigan provides a unique micro climate and fertile soil that allows High Acres to produce a wide variety of exceptional fruits and vegetables.
